THOUSANDS SEE SPACE-O-RAMA

It was like the great midway at Atlantic City.

Thousands poured into Our Lady of Mercy hall May 3-6 to view the Space-O-Rama festival, conveniently located by a giant arc light on top the hill.

Children threw ping pong balls into fish bowls and took rides in rockets. Grownups tried their luck at games as they shouldered their way through the crowds.

The parish hall, located at 1 Elmwood drive, featured 20 different booths stocked with merchandise. Over 2,000 prizes were given out Thursday, May 3.

Revolving signs lent a space-type Reno atmosphere. They read: "Rocket Fuel," "Las Venus."

The preview for children was held from 1:30 p.m. on May 3. General chairman of the four-day event was Dino Tonelli, who was assisted by Robert Hunter of the Westlake Catholic Men and Mrs. Albert Cucci of the Westlake Catholic Women.

On Saturday, "Bugs the Clown" entertained the children for three hours, manipulating balloons into the shapes of animals, and then presenting them as gifts.

Following his entertainment, 1300 dinners, prepared by Joe's of Westlake, were served in the parish school.

Daly City Man Beaten, Robbed

A 63-year-old Daly City man and a 62-year-old San Francisco woman were beaten and robbed early Sunday, May 6, in San Francisco. The victims, Michael Kerekes, 63, of 775 Niantic avenue, Daly City, and Mrs. Daisy Conner of 478 18th avenue, were approaching her home on foot when they were attacked by two husky young men.

The assault in the Richmond district rendered Kerekes almost unconscious. After knocking the couple to the ground, the two men took Kerekes' wallet containing $90 and Mrs. Conner's purse, containing $92.50, and fled on foot. Mrs. Conner was admitted to French Hospital because of a wrenched ankle suffered in the assault.

Good Crowd At Firemen's Ball

Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy, who earlier had shaved off three quarters inch of shin bone in a lawn spiking mishap, did his best to hobble about to the strains of Jimmy Blass' band.

George DeBono, secretary-treasurer of the Widows-Orphans Association, sponsor of the dance, said about 650 persons attended the affair.

First award of a stereo set went to S. Raitz, 6500 Mission street. Jack Colthurst, 93 Muirwood, won a gift of ten lines of bowling from the Westlake Bowl.

713 Elem Students To Move

Hundreds of Daly City elementary school children will be moved during the 1962-63 school year because their present classrooms are filled, according to district superintendent Richard Foster.

The students will be moved to schools where there are vacant classrooms. Parents may discuss the moves when the school board takes action on the matter at the May 21 district board meeting at 101 Lincoln avenue, Daly City.

The schedule is as follows:

Colma K-6
Send 67 fifth graders and 17 sixth graders to Daniel Webster at least until completion of Colma additions.

Send 75 sixth graders to Jefferson. (These have been there this year in the fifth grade.)

Abraham Lincoln
Send all sixth graders (two classes) and two fifth grade classes (60 pupils) to Christopher Columbus.

Vista Mar
Send three classes to Christopher Columbus (79 sixth graders).

Garden Village
Send all sixth graders (87 students) to M. Pauline Brown.

Send 14 fourth graders and 25 fifth graders to Jefferson; 31 fourth graders to Daniel Webster; 25 fifth graders and 69 sixth graders to Westlake; 64 fourth graders, 56 fifth graders, and 24 sixth graders to Rivera.

Jefferson School Spring Concert To Be Held On May 17

Parents and friends are invited to attend the annual Spring Concert to be held in the Jefferson School multi-use room on Thursday, May 17, at 7:30 p. m.

The program will include choral presentations by the glee club under the direction of Mrs. Beverly Cooper, Jefferson Elementary School District vocal teacher, and instrumental selections by the Jefferson orchestra, under the supervision of Richard Snyder, instrumental teacher.

The students have enjoyed participating in the music program and would appreciate the opportunity of sharing their experiences and activities with their parents and friends.

A brief PTA meeting will precede the spring concert.

No Problems In Broadmoor Teen Club

"The kids behave themselves."

A. L. Ickler, vice-president of the Westlake - Broadmoor Teen Club is proud of his organization, which he admits is self policing and self supporting.

The club belongs to the teenagers, they back it and support it, Ickler stated.

"We don't say you can't do this and you can't do that," "We don't necessarily make all the decisions. Some times we give the teenagers an idea . . . make suggestions."

Ickler had more to say about the teen club, which is composed of some 60 members from 14-18.

The club has an adult supervisory board which does background work and sets up a program each month, meeting the first and third Monday of each month. Meetings are held in the Broadmoor Community Center and dances usually follow, lasting until about 9:30 p.m.

The teenagers control themselves, have their own sergeant at arms. The club has held a spaghetti feed and car washes and is presently planning a Hawaiian Night affair on May 14. Merchants have given their support to the club and keep it self supporting.

Teacher Merit Pay Action Is Tabled

Tom Noonan, Jefferson Elementary School District trustee, tried hard to push a "no merit pay for unsatisfactory teachers" resolution Monday night, May 7, but the matter was held over for further study.

Noonan said that "I don't see how we're going to hold up the morale of the district . . . by rewarding people who are not doing a good job."

"Unless we can establish a board policy," he said, the administration can do nothing."

"Personally, I can't see paying more money to unsatisfactory people."

May 15 is contract time, and Noonan was concerned over renewal of contracts. However, upon suggestion of Superintendent Richard Foster, the matter will probably be held over for part of next year's policy.

In other action, the board:

1. Moved to invite a representative of Berrington and Company, New York, to talk about management consulting services.

2. Asked Superintendent Foster to make a recommendation to the board on custodian salaries, in regard to a survey made by the California Peninsula Employes Union which stated Daly City custodians were "grossly underpaid." Foster noted that Daly City's beginning custodians receive $360 permonth; South San Francisco, $408; San Bruno, $385, and Burlingame, $378. The maximum wage compares favorably with all others.

3. The board accepted and adopted the certificate of acceptance of Ocean Shore right of way. This is former Ocean Shore railroad land, secured by the Doelger Corp. and deeded in part to the school district.

SSF Gas Station Permit Denied By City Council

The long debated service station permit on South San Francisco's Grand avenue has been settled.

The City Council, on the recommendation of the planning commission, denied the permit to Shell Oil Company at last Monday night's public hearing.

Earlier this year, the planning commission denied the permit but an appeal was lodged, and the council referred it back to the commission for further study.

Monday night, on the strength of the commission's denial and several strong protests by the downtown merchants, Police Chief John Fabbri and contiguous property owners, the council rejected the appeal.

Fabbri, whose department made a close study, felt that the additional driveways on the main thoroughfore would impede traffic.

In other council action, bids for the long awaited Spruce avenue improvement were accepted. Work in the sreet is expected to begin within 15 days.

Motion Made To Dismiss Murder Charge

The attorney for Barry and Larry Delfino of Daly City has made a motion to dismiss the grand jury indictment of murder against the brothers, district attorney Keith Sorenson stated this week.

The motion, scheduled to be heard Monday morning, was continued until Thursday, May 10, at 9:30 a.m. The brothers are accused in the shotgun slaying of William "Angel" Lopez at Thornton Beach on April 17. The boys were arrested following the rumble whcih left one dead, two wounded by shotgun pellets and one knocked unconscious with a shotgun butt.

RARE FIND — The head and antlers of a huge Royal elk, believed to be at least 30,000 years old, were uncovered by the Arthur (Buss) Haskins grading crew as they were clearing and old lake near Skyline Blvd. in Pacifica. Michael O. Woodburne of University of California's department of paleontology, declared the find a real scientific "prize." The remarkably preserved skull and antlers have been removed to the university for further study and analysis. Woodburne said the elk came to this area during the ice age. The peat formation in which the remains were found is an excellent preservative, similar in general formation to the famous La-Brea tar pits, Woodburne explained. The 15-point antlers measured more than five feet, indicating the animal was nearly six feet tall at the shoulder and weighed some 800 pounds. This is the second significant historical discovery made in the area by the Haskins graders in recent weeks. Last month in Westborough, bulldozers uncovered a mammoth deposit of fossil which had at one time been on the floor of the ocean. (left to right) Michael O. Woodburne (in white shirt), Cal Palentologist; Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, grading contractor and Ben Mellor, foreman on the Fairmont propect. (He found the antlers).

The dance was sponsored by the Babe Ruth baseball league.

department was the principal witness.

Municipal Judge Charles Becker presided.

After a short welcoming speech by Mayor Lee J. Ryan of South San Francisco and an explanation of the meaning of Law Day and of the trial to be presented by attorney F. Jose de Larios of South San Francisco, prosecutor William Lanam called Sergeant Keane to the witness stand and set forth the people's case against two alleged drag-racers.

POSSIBLE MOHOLE SITE IS FOUND OFF HAWAII

An expedition from the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography has located a site off the Hawaiian Islands where the drilling of the Mohole might be feasible, says George C. Shor, Jr., geophysicist who was expedition leader.

The area lies 120 miles north of the island of Maui and 150 miles northeast of Honolulu. Preliminary reports indicate that it has the advantages of being fairly close to well-equipped ports, of being in a region where the weather is generally good, and where the sea floor is relatively level. Seismic studies show that the Mohorovicic discontinuity, the boundary between the earth's crust and mantle, lies about six and one-half miles beneath the sea floor. The heat flow through the ocean floor is low, which means that electronic instruments used in logging the hole can be operated without damage, Shor says. The water over the site is 13,000 feet deep.

PG&E home economist Louise Fletcher will give smart, modern ideas for around the clock entertaining, illustrating her talk with full color slides. Recipes for suggested dishes will be distributed. Guests are cordially invited.

Final reports of the officers and committee chairman will be given. Plans for the June 5 installation banquet will be announced by chairman, Mrs. Dan Uriarte. Regular monthly meetings will be resumed on September 18th.

Westmoor High School seniors Carlos Rivas and Carl Lembke have been chosen to represent their school in the Chrysler - sponsored "trouble shooting" contest, to be held May 17 in San Lorenzo.

HERE'S THE STORY OF MOTHER'S DAY

Mother may have "changed" since the modern observance of Mother's Day began early this century, but the significance of the observance remained the same.

Today's mother is much more interested in the world around her than her mother was, according to Don Davis, manager of Penney's of Westlake.

To support his statement, Davis pointed out that women spend an estimated 80 per cent of all family income, are said to vote 70 per cent of all corporate stock and have ownership interest in some 500,000 small businesses.

"These are startling statistics when one considers that mother at the start of the Twentieth Century was pretty such a 'stay-at-home'," Davis declared. "Her life revolved almost entirely around her family."

Today, he commented, 'mother not only has time to raise a family, but also keeps the family budget, maintains an active interest in the stock market and does numerous other things that wouldn't have been considered "suitable" back in 1907 — the year authorities say the modern observance of Mother's Day began.

Public Plea

But even before 1907, there was agitation for a tribute to mothers. It is believed the first public plea for a national Mother's Day was made by Frank E. Hering, orator and humanitarian, in a speech before a Fraternal Order of Eagles meeting on Feb. 7, 1904, in Indianapolis, Ind.

The building in which Hering made his speech has been replaced by one housing a J. C. Penney store. On the second floor of the store is a plaque commemorating his suggestion as being "the first known public plea for a nationwide observance of Mother's Day."

It was three years later, in May, 1907, that the modern observance of Mother's Day actually began. It was inspired by Miss Anna M. Jarvis of Philadelphia, who thought sons and daughters should pay tribute to their mothers at lease once a year.

Miss Jarvis arranged for a special mother's service in one of the churches and asked that white carnations be worn by those in attendance. The plan appealed to others, and services were held in more churches the next year. The second Sunday in May was agreed on as a suitable date for the tribute.

Far Spreading

By 1911, the observance had spread so far that there was not a state in the United States in which special programs were not held. The day also was observed that year in Canada, Mexico, South America, Africa, China, Japan, and on some islands.

In December 1912 a Mother's Day International Association was incorporated to encourage greater observance of the day. In May of the following year, the House of Representatives by unanimous vote adopted a resolution calling on the President, his cabinet, senators and representatives and all officials of the federal government to wear a white carnation on the second Sunday of May in observance of the day.

Congress itself in 1914 designated the day Mother's Day and asked the President to issue a proclamation calling on government officials to display the national flag on all public buildings. President Woodrow Wilson, on May 9, issued such a proclamation, asking people also to display the flag on their homes as "a public expression of our love and reverence for the mothers of the country." Similar proclamations are issued each year by his successors.

White Carnation

The Penney manager noted that sons and daughters soon got into the habit of making little gifts to their mothers on this day. Although a fad-type gift may gain favor for a year or so, he said traditional presents such as hosiery, handbags and sleepwear continue very much in favor.

The custom of wearing a white carnation was modified so that a distinction could be made between those whose mothers were still alive and those whose mothers were dead. White flowers are worn by the motherless and red flowers by the others.

The custom of holding a festival in honor of motherhood is very old, dating back in the western world to the time of the ancient Greeks. They worshipped Cybele, mother of the gods, and honored her at rites in woods and caves. The custom was introduced into Rome from Greece about 250 B.C., and on the Ides of March the festival of Hilaria in honor of Cybele was begun and continued for three days.

Davis noted that these early celebrations were entirely different from the observance this year which will honor mother on Sunday, May 13—as different as today's mother is from the mother of 1907 or of the ancient world.

One-Room Schoolhouse Returns

Parents, teachers, PTA's and school boards across the nation are beginning to discover that relief from over-crowded schoolrooms and half-time sessions need not wait on a painful, slow-moving big-figure bond issue.

It's done by mobile auxiliary classrooms that are set up in the school yard—without need of buying more real estate—connected with sewer and power lines and ready for lessons in a matter of days. For quick delivery, these standardized 20 by 40 Add-a-Class rooms are moved in lengthwise half-sections over the roads on their own wheels from the nearest of 12 Divco-Wayne plants. Set on jacks or masonry foundations or left on their wheels (where a roving, nature-study classroom is wanted), they surround 35 pupils with ultra-modern facilities, furniture and equipment, including individual air conditioning and heating systems and boys' and girls' washrooms.

Chicago tried out two of these new-fangled classrooms last January. The kids loved them. So did the teachers. The school authorities and the taxpayers were equally lyrical. Now they have 150 of them in operation and David J. Heffernan, assistant superintendent of schools, hails them as "an immediate answer to our double-shift problem."

He notes, too, that since they are mobile, the Add-a-Class rooms will enable the city to keep up with the problem of shifting population—which faces many smaller communities, especially where a single new industrial plant can change the town map. Frequently, Divco-Wayne will sell four or five units to a community along with one set of wheels to facilitate changing location. New York plans to add 500 mobile classrooms and expects to relieve overcrowding in 70 of the city's schools by September.

The swift and widespread acceptance of this new idea should also be good news to those who have been saddened by the passing of the one-room schoolhouse in which America got its start toward greatness. There's no longer any doubt about it. The one-room school is coming back in a big way. And we hope the old-timers won't mind that it is a lot fancier and has modern plumbing—including an electrically-cooled drinking fountain—instead of the "out-back" and the water bucket.

Chicken Feed

Did you ever see a million dollars?

You will, if you go to this year's Seattle World's Fair. A million silver dollars—weighing 30 tons—will be on display.

It's a sure bet that most viewers will be thinking, "Boy, if I only had that pile of dough!" Who wouldn't? But the sad truth is that if you earned a million in the course of a year, and if you head the average American family of four people, you'd have to pay out $856,910 in federal income taxes—plus whatever state and local taxes you are liable for.

Moreover, that million dollars, big as it looks to the vast majority of us, is a tiny drop in a huge bucket when it comes to government spending. It would, for instance, meet the interest costs on the national debt for just one hour and three minutes —or pay the salaries of federal civilian employes for a mere hour and 27 minutes.

Something For Everyone

No doubt thousands of people will flock to the national and state parks this summer for sight-seeing and relaxation. To meet the need for information about these parks, the Daly City Public Library has available for circulation many books and pamphlets which give data on the location, size, history, and points of interest of each park.

One of the most colorful and most recent guides is America's National Parks by Nelson Keyes. Illustrated with more than 500 photographs, the book covers 29 national parks in both the United States and Canada. Facts are included about the hostory of each park and information is given about accessibility and the accommodations available to visitors.

Other books which provide information and background about the national parks include: "America's Wonderland," by the National Geographic Society; "Our Country's National Parks," byIrvin Melbo, and three especially valuable pamphlets: National Park System: Western, National Park System; Eastern U. S., the National Park Story in Pictures. These are publications of the United States Government.

Of special interest are the publications of the Sunset Magazine. These deal with every portion of California. To make them more useful to the people of Daly City, the library has had them bound in hard covers. Copies may be found in both branches of the public library.

The branches of the public library are located at 6351 Mission street and 275 Southgate. Each branch is open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday.

Food For Thought

By the Daly City Ministerial Association

Our community has rightly become aroused at the problem of juvenile delinquency. The recent fatal "rumble" near Thornton Beach has catapulted the problem from Daly City's "back yard" to our very "door-step."

Everyone becomes concerned, some incensed. It's about time! There are no simple, pat solutions. But there are some that are more basic than others.

There are always those who propose youth recreational centers as the cure-all for delinquency. Others place great faith in "youth councils" and "commissions." Still others propose work projects and talent shows as worthwhile diversions.

Although each of these proposals may have its merit, there is one approach that is more basic than any of them. This goes back to the role of the parents, and a family heritage of religious faith. It has become rather trite to discuss "juvenile delinquency" as a mere by-product of "adult delinquency. Yet this is so often the case.

One need not be sociologist or professional analysist to discover the close relationship between "broken homes"and maladjusted children on their way to juvenile delinquency. Nor is it necessary for two parents to reach the stage of legal separation or divorce to produce the conditions of a "broken home."

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, recently stated that when 8000 teen-age criminals were asked how many had even gone to church, only 40 replied in the affirmative And when they were asked if any of them had attended church as a family, not one could answer "yes."

It is not uncommon for parents of wayward teenagers to woefully admit, "I must have failed somewhere along the line, but I don't know where." Often such an unhappy parent will insist, " I always made sure that my child got to Sunday School (or religious sevices)." Though, admittedly, many can not claim even this much.

It is not enough for us as parents to relegate the training of our children to others. Although formal education takes place in the class room, educators insist that the interest of parents is often the determining in the accomplishments of a young pupil. And, even more important is the role of parents in the religous and spiritual training of their young.

In the Biblical heritage common to Catholics, Protestants, and Jews, we are admonished to "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

How easy it is to leave that training to the instructor in Sunday School or Catechism classes; and to leave all guidance in moral and spiritual matters to the clegryman. Yet, inevitably, a child in such circumstances soon begins to complain, "I guess Sunday School and Church aren't very important; Mom and Dad sure don't go very often."

It is not enough to "send" my children for religeous instruction; unless I set the example by "taking" them, my influence will soon be defeated. And my role as personal spiritual advisor for my children cannot be based on a non-existent, or, at best, a second-hand faith. As a Christian father, I cannot convince my children of the importance of reading the Bible, unless I read it with them. They will not be at all convinced of the importance of regular church attendance, unless I attend with them. And I cannot lead my children to faith in Jesus Christ, until I have accepted Him myself.

And what has this to do with eliminating juvenile delinquency? Much, indeed. If my child knows me as a man of personal faith in God, he will also think of me as one in whom he can confide when moral and spiritual crises arise in his life.

If he observes that his home and family relationships have been more wonderful as a result of a deep family faith, he will think often of his responsibility to God. And this will prove to be the strongest deterrent to delnquency, either juvenile or adult.

Most of all, such a teen-ager will be constantly reminded that has parents are always upholding him in prayer. This will go a long way toward keeping close ties with his parents and with their God. For, truly, "the family that prays together, (generally always) stays together."

FIRE ACTS

This article is written by Daly City Firemen and published in this paper for the purpose of keeping the public informed about their Fire Department, its duties and associated activities.

We happened to run across a book the other day called "The Municipal Year Book." Because it has a great deal of data about cities of various size throughout the United States, we feel you may be interested.

Naturally a book such as this takes time to compile, so even though the book is new, it is also old, covering events of 1960.

For 1960, approximately 400 cities in the 25,000 to 50,000 population class reported. Daly City is, of course, in this group.

As far as fires go, this city averaged 4.8 building fires per 1,000 population, and our total fire loss was $85,000, or approximately $1.85 per person.

Comparing this 4.8 per 1,000 we find that 63 percent of the reporting 400 cities had less building fires per 1,000 than we did. But 52 percent of these same cities had a greater dollar fire loss.

Many of these fire losses were in the two or three hundred thousands, and one unfortunate city in Tennessee had a total fire loss of over five million dollars. Our $85,000 lost in 1960 fires looks rather small. This leads us to believe that either Daly City has very insignificant building fires, (although we doubt if any business man or home owner who has experienced a fire would consider it small) or we are a little more efficient fighting fires than we think we are. Maybe it is a little of both. As far as San Mateo County goes, three other cities besides Daly City reported in the 25,000 to 50,000 population range had less building fires per 1,000 population than we did, only two cities reported total fire losses but both were at least three times higher in dollar loss than our total loss. Not only did we do a good job Nation wide, but County wide as well.

Our Fire Service Day which was held last Saturday May 5, was not the success that we had hoped for, each Fire Station was open to the public and a public demostration was held in the parking area in the Westlake Shopping Center. The demostration was under the direction of Captain Keith Schrock Assistant Training Officer, the demostrations included the proper methods of extinguishing gasoline spill fires, with water, Carbon Dioxide Gas, and Dry Power Extinguishers. A free fall demostration was held from the aerial ladder truck, this is one method used in getting from a roof or other high place in an emergency, this demonstration was made by fireman Frank Martorana, fire apparatus was on display along with the rescue jeep, which is used for rescue along the beach.

We are sorry more people did not accept our invitation to attend open house and our demonstrations, we will have another Fire Service Day next year and we will keep you informed in this column.

Our 29th Annual Widows and Orphans' Ball was a huge success, we were happy to see so many people attending and enjoying themselves.

NOTE OF THANKS:

A Man's Memory Can Break A Case

You can follow all the procedures, run down all the leads, and use every mechanical and scientific device available — and sometimes it is one man's memory that will break the case for you.

Last February a man answered an advertisement in a newspaper. The advertisement read: "Typing in My Home," and listed the home phone number. The homemaker-typist and the man discussed typing and fees, and arrangements were made to bring the material to be typed to the woman's apartment.

The man came to the apartment, identified himself by name, and was admitted. He presented a sheaf of handwritten material, and described it as a manuscript. He asked the woman to read it. She did. It was pornographic in content.

The man brandished a knife and committed sexual indignities upon the woman, and then fled the scene.

Officer Kolbmann was dispatched to the scene, where he conducted his initial investigation. Acting Inspector Matthew Murray was assigned to the investigation.

Interviews were made, evidence was gathered, and a door-to-door neighborhood check was made. All positive information was put into an all points bulletin teletype message. Radio broadcasts were instituted.

The next night, Murray and Kolbmann transported the victim to the San Francisco Hall of Justice, where she viewed numerous photos of people with records of this type. She did not recognize anyone. At the hall were Lieutenant Scott and Inspector George Murray (no relation to the Daly City Murray). They are assigned to the General Work Detail, and investigate this type of offense in San Francisco. They put all of their resources at the disposal of our people.

The suspect telephoned the victim on several occasions. The woman was too disgusted to carry on a conversation of the length necessary to trace and trap the suspect. She and her husband moved to another neighborhood.

The apartment house owner placed the apartment at the disposal of the police. The telephone company tapped the telephone wire — legally. Mrs. Helen Sherwood of the Daly City department was posted at the apartment for several days for the purpose of answering the phone. The suspect did not call again. She reported every knock at the door, and a number of door-to-door salesmen were thoroughly questioned on these days — but no suspect.

The people at the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation at Sacramento endeavored to run down the suspect's name (fictitious) without success.

In cooperation with the newspaper in which the original classified advertisement was run, another ad was posted. It read: "Typing Done in My Home," and the phone number was given. The phone number was that of Matt Murray. His wife, Shirley, answered the phone each time it rang for a week. There was a false alarm or two, and several offers of legitimate typing jobs, but the suspect did not call.

The suspect had worn gloves, an no fingerprints were recovered from the apartment. All leads had been followed. All the procedures had been followed. Mechanical and scientific devices had not helped in this case . . . but a man's memory did help.

Inspectors Dyer and Pedrini arrested a man in San Francisco on a sex charge. The arrest was made two months and many sex cases after the Daly City case. George Murray's memory functioned: "I'll bet that's the guy who was involved in that Daly City case a couple of months ago."

Acting on Inspector Murray's information, Acting Inspector Bergstrom (who was now assigned the case for the Daly City police) traveled with the victim to the San Francisco Hall of Justice. She viewed a lineup. She positively identified William Chotos as the person who had molested her.

A search of the suspect's effects turned up pornographic writings, among which was the story the victim had read on the day of the assault. Other clues pointed to the guilt of Chotos. He was interrogated by Bergstrom, and admitted his participation in the Daly City case.

Chotos had served ten years in San Quentin. He has been out a year. He is going back for a while longer. The San Francisco police are seeing to that. The Daly City case is cleared through the courtesy of George Murray.

The space age . . .

The police department has a space age of its own. Space, or the lack of it, is fast becoming the prime concern of the internal police operation. The necessary personnel explosion has resulted in division and subdivision of offices into what is a veritable rabbit warren of cubicles and cubbyholes.

Recently, a drunken punk was brought to the station during a week day. His profanity and vituperation were clearly audible throughout the entire building. No complaint is made here on behalf of the police personnel, for that is part of the job. There are, however, other city offices in the building, and it seems that many a feminine ear was reddened on that morning.

The department has outgrown locker room and locker space. A squad room doubles as a coffee room. Interrogation facilities are extremely limited. We are in each other's way — and not through inefficiency, either. The crowded conditions do affect the efficiency, however.

To start our own space age, we must get off the ground, and launch into a building project in search of working space.

COUNTY DOINGS

A seven-member rapid transit study committee for San Mateo county has been appointed by the Board of Supervisors.

The county's withdrawal from the Bay Area Rapid Transit District became official May 1 upon adoption of a formal resolution from the board.

Although San Bruno has made an issue of the controversial cross country arterial Route 229, Pacifica wants it as soon as possible.

Pacifica city councilmen have asked city attorney Conrad Reish to send a resolution to the state division of highways asking that the route for the ne whighway west of Sweeney Ridge in San Francisco water department property be designated as rapidly as possible.

The city also asked the state to acquire the right of way for the new highway and to begin its construction as quickly as funds are available.

South San Francisco city councilmen have decided to move ahead with the first steps to convert the former Magnalia avenue school into a half-million dollar cultural and art center.

City Manager Eugene Aiello was instructed to proceed with plans to convert the former school into a 600seat little theater and to remodel four classrooms into a rehearsal room.

The San Mateo City Council has under study a plan for a bus line running into San Francisco and possible creation of a public transit jointly with Palo Alto to serve San Mateo county. A public vote would be necessary. Prime service would be to one-car families, senior citizens and those unable to drive.

The San Mateo-Burlingame bus ine is due to shut down operations by June 30.

Mums—The Most Popular Perennial

Bloom is the end product of most ornamental plants, but few of them reach this goal with such a fabulous burst of color as the chrysanthemum. When, after months of waiting, they start their show, you know they were worth waiting for.

If you would fill your fall garden with these most popular perennials, the time to start is right now. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen will be offering started plants of all the best crysanthemums during the coming weeks. They are easy to transplant and, if you understand their needs, easy to grow.

Except for the summer-blooming Cushion mums, which we'll consider later, all the chrysanthemum family should be guided through various cultural steps designed to promote the maximum of flowering foliage for the fall show. These include regular watering and feeding to keep them growing plus pinching to encourage their bushiness.

Chrysanthemums have monumental appetites and the wise gardener will make sure the soil is enriched at planting time. Use steer manure and plan to supplement this with twice-monthly meals of liquid fish. Watering is essential to make the food available and to keep the growing plants succulent and vigorous.

The plants you set out from nursery plant bands should have about two weeks to settle in their new location, then the tops should be pinched out to stop growth. This is the first of several pinchings to come and will promote about three new shoots where only one was before. Subsequent pinching will encourage more new shoots, hence more flowering foliage. Pinching should stop in the first half of July, however, so that the plants may develop undisturbed until flowering. Bud removal during August and September will result in larger, if fewer, blooms.

Like the dahlia, chrysanthemums have myriad faces: Pompon, Spider, Spoon, Anemone and Exhibition mums are all popular forms. For average garden use, however, don't overlook the summer-blooming Cushion mums. These may also be planted now. Naturally compact in growth, they are wonderful fillers in sunny borders and beds, in rockeries and in containers. They are long blooming and will come on again and again if you keep the faded blossoms cut back.

NATURAL BRIDGE

Natural Bridge, located 14 miles north of Payson in Arizona, is reported by the National Automobile Club to be the result of a limestone formation worn by erosion. This scenic wonder yearly attracts many tourists.

Career Notes

By RUTH WADE RAY*

The time when America's high school graduates will march down the aisle and into their chosen careers is near at hand. But career selection begins (or should) long before graduation. We find that creative people often do not understand how to put their talent to use.

Since Ray Vogue is the oldest professional arts school in the nation, many high school graduates come to me for advice. I tell them how we decided upon our six varied courses which utilize creative ability and prepare talented students for business success.

Graduates of our two-year course in interior decoration are placed in jobs with specialty and furniture houses, decorating firms and publications around the country.

Commercial art grads go into the art department of publishing or advertising companies while a one-year course in photography paves the way for careers in commercial, illustrative or portrait photography. The fascinating fashion industry welcomes graduates of our fashion courses dress design (two years), fashion merchandising (one year) or fashion illustration (two years).

*President, Ray-Vogue Schools, 750 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. Write Department 466 for career booklet. (Specify course about which you would like information.)

Judges Selected For Student BA Awards

A panel of seven Bay area community leaders was named last week to select final winners in the Bank of America high school Achievement Awards Competition in San Francisco Thursday, May 17.

The group will assemble at San Francisco State College at noon Thursday to interview seniors from Sonoma, Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Cruz and western Santa Clara counties who survived zone competition last month.

When the judging panel's balloting is completed and results announced at a banquet in the St. Francis Hotel Thursday night, four of the student finalists will pocket $1,000 sweepstakes winners in the anual Achievement Awards program.

The judges named today are: Thomas M. O'Connor, San Francisco city attorney; Dan H. Bowerman, managing editor of the Santa Rosa Press Democrat; Harry L. Browne, president of Hazelton-Nuclear Science Laboratories in Palo Alto; Mrs. Madelaine Haas Russell, director of the State Department Reception Center in San Francisco.

Dwight R. Crum, regional supervisor of the State Bureau of Business Education in Oakland; William G. White, president of Consoldated Freightways Inc. San Francisco.

Panel chairman will be Dr. Frank L. Fenton, acting president of San Francisco State College.

The judges will choose first, second and third place winners in fine arts, science and math, liberal arts, and vocational arts. Their selections will be based on their evaluation of candidates' academic records, school activities, and personalities.

President pro tempore of the United States Senate David Rice Atchison became President of the United States on Sunday, March 4, 1849 and served until Zachary Taylor took the oath of office the next day.

Students Take Top Journalism Honors

Writing new prose like old pros, nine teen-age journalists from northern California high school newspaper staffs have taken top honors in the San Francisco Press & Union League Club's 17th annual junior scholarships awards contest.

Announced as first place winners at a scholarships luncheon as the club today were:

Best Stories

Nancy Petersen, Willow Glen High School, San Jose, best news story; Bill Heal, Oakland HS, best sports story; and Nancy Miles, Yuba City Union HS, best feature story.

The youthful trio received $200 scholarships, presented on behalf of the PULC by the organization's president, Robert Eunson.

Second place scholarships, worth $100, went to news writer Patricia Connal, Westmoor HS, Daly City, sports writer Lee Norman, Willow Glen HS, San Jose, and feature writer Michael Schmitz, Piedmont HS.

Contestants receiving $50 awards for third place in news, sports, and feature writing were, respectively, Diana Fenster, San Mateo High, Ted Duffield, Santa Cruz High, and Jim O'Toole, Lowell High, San Francisco.

Professional Panel

Winners earned their distinctions over 106 other northern California high school seniors who entered this year's competition. Entries were judged by a panel of professional San Francisco and Oakland newsmen.

More than 300 journalism students and faculty advisers from 59 participating schools were guests of the club at the awards luncheon.

Miss Petersen's winning news story dealt with local reaction to the death of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Heal, in his entry, employed an unusual technique — a parody on the baseball poem, "Casey at the Bat" — to record his high school football team's championship clinching victory.

Miss Miles' mirth filled but convincing editorial, "Look Ma, No Brains," reviewed the brief career of a fictitious young hot rodder who lost only one game of "chicken"—to an SP streamliner.

USF Philosophy Discussion

Does philosophy training make a better businessman, doctor, lawyer, scientist?

The University of San Francisco will enlist the aid of alumni to find out.

On Wednesday evening, May 16, faculty members and USF alumni will engage in a free-wheeling discussion of philosophy's value in the college curriculum. The emphasis will be on hindsight.

"We want to know whether our alumni feel the subject has helped or is still helping them five, 10, 15 years after graduation," said Rev. Edmond J. Smyth, dean of the college of liberal arts and science.

Four years of philosophy is now mandatory for most USF undergraduates.

Dr. Desmond J. FitzGerald and Rev. Francis Marien, S. J., of the philosophy department will join Father Smyth in the seminar. All USF alumni, their wives, and friends are invited. The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in the campus Gleeson Library.

ALEC MOTHER OF THE YEAR — Some lucky mother will be selected as the "Alec Mother of the Year" at 4:30 p. m., Saturday, May 12, at the Alec Membership Shopping Center in Colma. Admiring the royal crown and cape, displayed on a life-size Alec mannequin, are, left to right: Mrs. Heather Calfas of 179 Skyline drive, Daly City; Elec Land, who will draw the winning mother's name, and Mrs. Gail Fernandez of 107 Alexander avenue, Daly City.

Modern Coffee Shop Comes To San Bruno

Keeping pace with the rapid growth of the Peninsula, one of the must ultra modern and luxurious coffee shops in the world will open is doors in San Bruno on Monday, May 14.

With civic officials and business leaders from San Bruno, Millbrae, Burlingame and San Mateo present for the grand opening ceremonies at 11 a.m., the $200,000 Lyon's Coffee Shop will officially serve its first patrons.

Located next to the Post Office, on the corner of San Bruno avenue and El Camino Real, the Lyon's Coffee Shop is a new conception in architectural design for restaurants with its unique stepped diamond shaped roof and extensive use of natural rock and glass and an out-of-doors fireplace.

Maternity Dept. At H. Liebes Westlake Store

Something new has been added to the H. Liebes Westlake store.

It is a complete maternity department, featuring beautiful new summer merchandise.

Fashionwise as well as pricewise everything in the department corresponds with H. Liebes standards.

Anything an expectant mother could want for her wardrobe is there. Not only dresses, jackets and skirts, but slacks, shorts and bathing suits. All of the pretty things needed to keep a land-in-waiting feeling comfortable and looking beautiful are available.

Ground Covers For Sun, Shade

Ground covers usually come off second best when compared to lawns, but there's no denying their worth in garden use. On slopes, banks and in unattended garden areas where lawns won't grow, any of several ground covers can keep things looking neat, green and orderly throughout the year.

The ground cover need not be ground hugging. And if we think of it as such we are probably seeing it only as a substitute for grass. So long as it cloaks some unsightly area with its greenery, it makes little difference whether the ground cover grows three inches or three feet high. For that reason, we consider the Santa Cruz Pyracantha and the shrubby Pfitzer Juniper as much a ground cover as ivy or Dichondra.

Just for the record, let's see what the California Association of Nurserymen considers suitable for covering large areas of ground. In sunny locations, the CAN recommends Dwarf Rosemary, Lantana, Santa Cruz Pyracantha, Carmel Creeper and any of several Junipers for taller covers; Ice Plant, Ornamental Strawberry, Ivy Geranium and Creeping Thyme for lower cover. In shade or part shade, the nurserymen recommend Periwinkle, Carpet Bugle, Hypericum and Stone Crop, the latter two of which will do equally well in the sun.

The one that seems adapted for every purpose is Ivy. Indifferent to neglect and drought, as much at home in the sun as in the shade, the Ivies deserve every bit of their acknowledged popularity.

The differences among Ivies may be subtle, but they are definite. Algerian Ivy, the variegated form of which is most widely used in hot, sunny situations, has large leaves that are less deeply lobed than English Ivy. The latter, though it has many of its own variations, is generally smaller leaved and more often found in green rather than variegated forms. The small leaf Ivy, which is extremely popular for covering small areas, is a variation of English Ivy known as Hahn's Ivy. Like all ground covers, the Ivies must outgrow their initial scraggly looks before you can ignore them, but once established, they are remarkably self sufficient.

Since 1881, when Switzerland became the first country to mint a coin of pure nickel, 44 other countries have also adopted pure nickel coinage.

SHE'S "DAISY!" She's adorable! She's adopted! This winsome child is the theme baby for the Mother's Day membership appeal of the Children's Home Society of California. Now in its 71st year, the Home Society is the oniy licensed-statewide adoption agency serving the Society in helping other "Daisies" find happy, permanent adoptive homes by subscribing to a membership (from $2 to $10) in Children's Home Society, 3200 Telegraph Avenue, Oakland.

It's News To Vets

Q—Will the VA pay for ambulance transportation to and from a VA hospital?

A—Only if prior authorization is obtained from the hospital. A veteran or private physician may apply to the hospital by mail or phone for this authorization if (a) the veteran has a service-connected condition or (b) if a non-service-connected veteran can't pay the cost of the travel.

Q—A discharge or dismissal from service by sentence of a general court-martial bars veterans from benefits administered by the VA. Recently after a Navy veteran had been discharged by sentence of a general court-martial, the Navy Board for Correction of Naval Records held that his records should be corrected to show his separation was under honorable conditions. How about cases like this?

A—A recent decision of the VA general counsel held that the action of the Board of Correction of Naval Records has the status of a special act of Congress for the veteran's relief, making the veteran eligible for VA benefits to which he is other wise entitled.

Q—Because I pay my National Service Life Insurance premiums by allotment, I have not applied for the total disability income provision which might pay me $100 a month if I am disabled before age 60. Can I get the TDIP rider, and if so, how?

A—Yes, you can, and without a physical examination if you are under age 40. Application forms and assistance are available at any VA office or from your Service Personnel Officer.

South San Francisco Theater Robbed

An armed robber, wearing a long tan overcoat and dark glasses stole $106 on Saturday night, May 5, from the State theater, 201 Linden avenue in South San Francisco.

The man, described as heavily built, 30 years of age and with red-brown hair, approached the cashier, Winoma Brown, placed his right hand in his overcoat pocket, simulating a gun. He put his left hand in the cashier's window, said "Give me the money in the top drawer, this is a stickup. And, tell the boys at the door to stay there."

She handed over the money. The man left on foot.

CSM Expands Tests For New Entrants

To meet the projected increase in fall semester enrollment at College of San Mateo, an expanded test schedule has been announced by Edmond Shinn of the College testing service.

The first of the new test dates, on three consecutive Saturdays, will accommodate the anticipated entrants in full test sessions from 8 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. in the Men's Gym, Coyote Point Campus.

The basic groupings are as follows: Students with the last initials A through J, May 12; K through Q on May 19; R through Z, May 26.

The placement examinations are required of all entering students and are used in counseling for proper placement of students in subject levels. The English placement will begin promptly at 8 a.m. and will conclude at 10:15; it will be followed immediately by the aptitude test, from 10:15 through 12:30. An additional examination, the Mathematics Placement, is required of all students planning to enroll in math sections other than beginning algebra or geometry. The Math Placement will begin at 1:30 p.m. on each of the test days, also in the Men's Gym.

During the summer, other test days will be offered: Saturday, July 21, 8 a.m. — the last opportunity to qualify for early counseling; Tuesday, July 24, 7 p.m. — English; Thursday, July 26, 7 p.m. — Aptitude; and Saturday, August 25, 8 a.m. — the last date to qualify for fall semester registration.

Shinn nas noted that students must report to the test area well in advance of the starting time. Tests are timed, and students arriving late will be required to return at another time.

Full information on placement examinations and admission procedures may be obtained from the Registrar's Office, College of San Mateo.

CHILDREN'S HOME SOCIETY

How To Adopt A Child

(Once a year Mother has her day. Many happy Mothers are eulogized by children who are adopted. The joys of parenthood can come by adoption as well as by having a child. The Children's Home Society of California, only licensed statewide adoption agency, has helped bring happiness to many thousands of childless couples this past seventy-one years. As a service to our readers, we offer this article on the procedures involved in adopting a child).

Parents fortunate enough to have experienced the boundless joy that comes when a new baby is born into a family can begin to appreciate what it means to a childless couple to be able to share that experience, through adoption.

But how does a couple go about adopting a child? Prospective adoptive parents can make their wishes known to a private adoption agency, like the Children's Home Society of California, by a simple phone call. This starts the process.

The prospective adoptive couple might wonder what is expected of them. As far as the Children's Home Society is concerned, the couple does not have to meet any fixed qualifications of income, occupation, education, housing or social status. A happy marriage, sound health, emotional stability, love and a real interest in children are the primary factors.

Group Meetings

First step in the process at the Children's Home Society is to bring prospective adoptive parents together in group meetings. In concert with other couples, they learn of the procedures and policies involved in adoption. They have a chance to ask questions. They can then evaluate their feelings about adoption more searchingly.

Proving to themselves that they have a deep and abiding desire to take a child into their home, the next step in the process is a personal interview with one of the skilled social workers at the Children's Home Society.

Next a period of family study takes place. These meetings are arranged by appointment only, both in the couples home and at the office of the Children's Home Society.

For reasons apparent to all, preference in adoption is given to couples who, for medical reasons, appear unlikely to have children of their own. However, this is by no means a hard and fast rule.

Counseling Given

As far as the age of couples wanting to make an adoption is concerned, the father should not be more than 43 years older than the child and the mother not more than 38 years older. The prospective adoptive parents should have been married at least three years.

You might well ask at this point, how long it takes before a couple receives a child for adoption? The careful procedure of family study and finding the right child for the right couple is completed within a period of from six to nine months. However, many placements today are made in a shorter period.

Adoptive parents are provided with non-identifying, appropriate information about the child and the natural parents. After a child goes home with his new mother and father, the social worker from the Children's Home Society continues to counsel and assist the family until the time the adoption is made final by the court.

Physicians, attorneys, psychologists and social workers all participate in the studies and planning leading up to an adoption. Each contributes his specialized knowledge to assure the best possible future for the child and his adoptive parents.

Legally Sound

Parents who adopt a child through a licensed agency have the assurance of a legally sound adoption in a confidential manner. They have the peace of mind that results from knowing that the decision to place the child in an adoptive home was made by the natural parents only after careful consideration. They know that the natural parents had the benefit of professional counselling in arranging a plan that seemed in the best interest of both the child and the parents. The decision is sound and final, and the identities of the adoptive parents and the natural parents are protected from each other.

With the burgeoning birthrate, Children's Home Society offices in the Golden Gate District, as well as throughout the state, are called upon for accelerated services to the natural parents. Presently there are more children available for adoption, most of them tiny infants. The fact that the Children's Home Society meets the need for service is greatly outdistancing the adoption agency's normal source of income.

Everyone interested in the welfare of children — our country's greatest natural asset — is invited to become a member of the Children's Home Society during this "Mother's Day" membership appeal. Memberships from $2 to $10 can be mailed to the nue, Oakland.

Master Evaluator Should Be Fair

By Jack Wood

The Master Evaluator in the Daly City Toastmaster's Club is supposed to be fair.

When someone makes a blunder, errors are to be pointed out, not to hurt, but to assist, in becoming a polished speaker. The main thing is not to point out too many things which are insignificant, to avoid giving the speaker an inferiority complex.

I was selected as the Master Evaluator for the May 5 charter presentation and installation of officers held at the new Lincoln Park Clubhouse.

I thought Bill Chapman, was a poised and relaxed Toastmaster, but his order to "Let's Eat" was too forceful.

Our past president, Ed Dominion, made an error by calling on the Almighty.

However, the salad was very good. Seasoning salt made the meat tasty. Potatoes and beans were a little flat.

On the other hand, the paper program was nicely decorated. The cake looked beautiful, in fact lovely. It also tasted good.

Bob Evans gave an interesting talk on prospecting and at times had the audience in the palm of his hands. His joke at the end about St. Peter going to prospect for gold was very timely.

Sam Chandler's thoughtful talk on crises in America and the strength of the "ordinary people" was smoothly delivered.

Newly installed officers are: Edward Weisbond, president; Edward Tomasello, educational vice president; Merlin Porter, administrative vice president; Charles Vincent, secretary; Russell Jones, treasurer; Dave Sumbardo, sergeant at arms. The installation was made by Bill Jow, area governor area 5, district 4. Presentation of Charter was made by Bill Smith, Lt. Governor, Northern Division, District 4.

Peninsular City Of Hope Need Door Bell Ringers

A call for volunteers to ring doorbells June 10 was sounded last week by Mrs. Louis Mann, North San Mateo County supervisor for the City of Hope.

"Scores of workers are needed to call on their neighbors for the funds to help further the City of Hope program, aimed at the control and eradication of catastrophic diseases," she said. "Although we are gratified by the initial response to our call for volunteers, we must enlist many more," Mrs. Mann said.

Emphasizing the pilot role of the medical center, the supervisor noted that many advances in medical science had been pioneered at the City of Hope. The radioactive cesium "ring" and a total body irradiation unit—new weapons against cancer — were first developed there.

"Without the volunteers, the City of Hope could not exist today," Mrs. Mann stated. "Volunteers, in turn, are rewarded with the knowledge that they are helping to advance the frontiers of science against cancer, the leukemias, hereditary diseases, blood, chest and heart disorders, it was pointed out.

Indiyiduals with time to depeal are urged to contact Mrs. Mann at 103 Fir avenue, South vote to the house-to-house ap- San Francisco.

According to William C. Harr, Harvis already has several major commercial and industrial projects under construction. New offices for the company, located at 333 El Camino Real, will be completed by July.

Keep Fuchsias Moist

Constant moisture and frequent feeding is rewarded with prolific bloom on your fuchsias. Use a spray when watering and give the leaves a shower as well as the roots. Members of the California Association of Nurserymen suggest mulching around fuchsias with steer manure or peat moss as a moisture conserving measure. Use a two or three inch mulch. As for feeding, liquid fish or a soluble commercial fertilizer enables you to do the job without having to scratch around the near-surface roots.

SSF Sailor Aids Sicilian Orphans

Gilbert G. Lucero, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted A. Lucero, 872 Commercial avenue, South San Francisco, is serving aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Canberra, operating with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Since joining the fleet in late February, the ship has visited Cannes, France, and Palermo, Sicily.

In Palermo, the Canberra's crew discovered an orphanage badly in need of repairs in the nearby town of Monreale. For six consecutive days, volunteers from the ship worked on the orphanage—installing new window panes, repairing faulty electrical fixtures and repainting the inside walls.

As a final gesture, the crew donated enough money to buy a large washing machine for the orphanage.

The estimated per capita consumption of wine in the United States in 1961 was nine-tenths of a gallon.

Clear Skies Add Fun To Columbus School Festival

Weather reports indicated sunny and clear skies for the Christopher Columbus School May Day Festival, and parents and children enjoyed the dances presented by each of the classes, Tuesday, May 1.

Primary grade children wore colorful hats, aprons, ties and sashes befitting their dances. Kindergarten classes performed the Hockey Pokey; the first grades started the month off with flying colors, in their rendition of Lovely May.

Second grades and the special class looked as if they had stepped from the pages of a storybook when they danced Hansel and Gretel. Lacy caps and frilly aprons caught the breezes to the lively wooden shoes, which the third grades presented.

Upper grade classes brought their social studies units into the spotlight with the fourth grades dancing the ever-popular Virginia Reel. Fifth and sixth graders entertained spectators with King Cotton, Marching Through Georgia and Hinky-Dinky.

Columbus School would like to thank all parents and friends who attended the May Dance. We are proud to say that we had 315 visitors!

Vista Mar School

Vista Mar's "Open House" Tuesday evening provided an opportunity for parents to visit classrooms, see growth patterns of their children's work, and talk to the teacher.

560 parents visited classrooms and signed registers. Samples of work in all curriculum areas, particularly the fundamental concepts and areas of social science experiences and activities, were displayed.

Coupled with this evening observance was a scheduled demonstration in the classrooms on Thursday, of classroom presentation to help parents better evaluate the importance of work habits and attitudes as they contribute to learning. "A guide to Classroom Observation was given parents.

On Friday afternoon the 4th and 5th grade glee club presented their annual Spring Concert. Over one hundred parents attended.

Karen Crowley and Hope Sorensen in Mrs. Angelina Friedman's fifth grade class have made some interesting observations on the qualities of sound. They demonstrated to the class the difference between pitch, loudness, and overtones.

Other members in the class are working on the functions of the ear — how the ear helps us with our balance and the importance of the ear.

Two Student Teachers

Jefferson Elementary School boasts the addition of two student teachers to its faculty. Miss Rachel Smith is teaching under Mario Lombardi in his sixth grade.

Miss Smith is from Bakersfield but she has traveled in the United States and in Hawaii. She was educated at the University of California in Santa Barbara and is now in her senior year at San Francisco State College and will graduate in June.

Miss Smith is to be under contract at Edward Air Force Base and will have a fifth grade. She is assisting Mr. Lombardi in all areas of curriculum. The class is currently studying South America and is making murals.

With Peter Hansen in his fifth-sixth grade class is Miss Sharon Light. Miss Light hails from Chapman, Tenn., and has traveled extensively in the United States and Panama with her Army family.

She was a nuclear physics major at the University of California in Berkeley but found a greater interest in teaching children. She aspires to teach in the Jefferson Elementary School District. Miss Light is assisting Mr. Hansen in the study of the geography and topography of South America. Miss Light will graduate in June from San Francisco State College.

Abraham Lincoln

A corps of ten competent and dependable boys and girls of Abraham Lincoln Elementary School are waging a successful campaign for safety. With their gold and blue caps, their Sam Brown belts and their badges, as well as their courtesy and promptness, these students handle the hall congestion, patrol the bus exits and shepherd the kindergarten children across the wide Southgate avenue on their way home after school.

The fourth and fifth grade classes supply these monitors, whose choosing is based on scholarship as well as dependability. From Mrs. Anne Byerly's fourth grade Denise Martinez and Craig Paras were chosen. Mrs. Sylvia Broderick's class is represented by Bill Clark and Jeanette Kahl. Joey Tringali and Marguerite Baker serve as monitors from Mrs. Katherine Gerdes' fourth-fifth combination class. Mrs. Nettie Herbert's fifth grade and Mr. Michael Pennings' fifth grade have each contributed two members — Dick Littlefield, Deborah Brooke, Patty Valdez and Janna Redfield.

Two SSF Students Selected For Exchange Program

South San Franciso high school students Pauline Hamel and William Gorham have been selected by the students, school officials and Foreign Exchange officials as SSFHS's 1962 Foreign Exchange students.

Miss Hamel will reside with a family in Sweden for a month and then tour parts of Europe. She will fly to New York in June to attend orientation classes before departing for Europe.

Westmoor Observes May Day

On May 1 in Russia, loyal comrades of the U.S.S.R. spend the day exhibiting their nation's force through guided missiles and other articles of destruction. Not so in America!

Our May Day was given over to observance of Law Day U. S. A. Throughout the country and more specifically in the municipal court of South San Francisco, young civic minded American youths attended mock trials to exhibit the workings of justice and liberty under the law in our country.

Representing Westmoor during Law Day was Mr. Leland's civics class which took a field trip to the North County courthouse to observe mock proceedings. The nature of the case tried before Municipal Judge Charles Becker was a violation of the penal code section 231-09A, engaging in a speed contest.

Defendants Smith and Jones were arraigned for dragging down a South City residential street and for setting up a barricade to prevent traffic from entering the street during the contest.

Witness for the prosecution and practicing officer Sergeant James Keane, who was summoned by a neighbor to halt a drag contest between two youths, both over 18. He maintained that the two pushed their cars, '52 Ford and '57 Chevy, to the excessive speed of 80 miles an hour in .1 of a mile. Counselor for the defense tried everything from improper uniform to uncalled for duress of the defendants to prove innocence of the two boys.

Verdict of Judge Becker and the majority of members of the courtroom was that the boys were indeed guilty of engaging in a speed contest.

In an informal opinion session held during the court, high school observers had a chance to question the attorneys, judge and arresting officers.

Olympia School

Mrs. L. Bostwick, principal of Olympia School, spoke to the third grade boys and girls of Mrs. B. Busetto's and Mrs. P. Mattson's classes and to Mrs. F. Lamp's combination second and third grade on Friday, May 4, on the life of the Southwest Indian today.

Mrs. Bostwick, who has lived and taught in this area, presented many interesting aspects for the Indian study the children have been doing. She described the activitiy of the trading post, the family life of the Indians, their government, and their education.

She contrasted life on the reservation and the changes taking place now that many Indians are becoming integrated throughout the United States any many are now living in the Bay Area.

The children were interested in hearing of the pinon nuts that Navajo Indians gather to bring to the trading post together with the wool and sheep. They learned about the pawning of jewelry and other economic problems they have.

No Easy Solutions To Juvenile Problem

By PARIS B. SIMMONS
Article Two

The reader should realize that the problem of juvenile delinquency is very complex. There are no easy solutions—and the solutions that do appear will be a result of much work and for greater understanding.

Many departments and individuals working with this problem become too defensive when questioned about their accomplishments. Perhaps they feel insecure in the knowledge that they are limited by a variety of forces, yet this very defensiveness is a strong indication of a weakness in their particular area. All departments and individuals must forget their own status in this attack on delinquency, and concentrate on the goals necessary to defeat the existing conditions.

The juvenile of today is concerned about this problem, whether delinquent or not. If the youngster has the confidence of an adult and believes in this adult, he or she will be quite vocal in discussing the various issues as seen by him or her. These children would like to solve their own problems, but these are so complex that it is far beyond their ability. With the assistance of adults, who will realize that group pressures are the strongest weapon that can be used in fighting juvenile outrages, there is a good possibility that the youth may be guided in the direction of helping themselves.

Most youngsters in discussing their problems will state that there is a lack of facilities for their age group. This cannot be denied and it is foolish to do so. Daly City does have a number of parks, but when the total acreage of such parks is considered, rather than the mere number (nine), their complaint appears most valid.

The recreation department has pointed out a number of times that the schools are used to provide additional facilities, which is fine. However, it must be noted that several of these are prime gathering places for one of the gangs mentioned in last week's article — the Barts. (The Leaguers favor a few of the parks.)

This is not the fault of the recreation department or school department. It would be quite simple to hide this fact as it would other gathering spots of business establishments in the area. Recognizing that this is so, steps can be taken to investigate and determine whether or not the factor has a determining force in encouraging delinquency, or if it keeps such gangs in the open and allows for better protection by the police.

It is pointed out that none of the preceding should be taken to imply that tenagers should be given all their desires on a silver platter—quite the contrary. I these youngsters really feel that a recreation facility is what is needed to cut down the delinquency, they should be willing to put out the necessary work and effort to obtain it. Working for it by raising finances, planning and actually building, resulting in a relieving of the burden of such an enterprise from the shoulders of the taxpayers, is the only way seen to provide for a lasting appreciation. "Anything worth having is worth working for!"

This project, if properly administered and guided, would be a wonderful opportunity to guide the youth of our area towards effective citizenship. The mere providing of facilities will not solve the problem of delinquency in Daly City.

Since the first article of this series appeared, a number of teenagers have expressed their viewpoint to the author. Others wishing to be heard on the subject are encouraged to write to this column through the Marchbanks Publications.

Prior to the time this article was submitted to the publisher, over 75 adults have contacted the writer pledging their assistance. Every person is welcome to join in this endeavor—the first step is a call to PL 5-4588, after 5 p.m.

Churches Sponsor Art Center

A recent innovation for the San Francisco Bay Area is the Fourteenth Street Arts Center at 499-14th Street, San Francisco. This center is sponsored by the United Presbyterian Churches of this region.

Here are workshops, seminars, classes, exhibits, rehearsals, demonstrations, concerts, performances, readings, discussions and dramas. These are mainly of experimental works in poetry, the novel, photography, the film, paintings, dance, music, sculture and the theatre. Here in an intimate atmosphere, actors, directors, writers, composers, painters, etc. can change and develop their works free from rigid programming and box-office pressure. An audience may here be developed more closely related to the artists.

The purpose of the Center includes what has just been said but in the framework of an exploration into God in the moral functions of restoring the just causes for sorrow, compassion, despair and joy. Religious motivation is shown in what is holy in contrast to what is profane.

The public is cordially invited to drop in anytime for exhibits, to view rehearsals, and to talk with the artists and actors over a cup of coffee during the coffee breaks. Classes are offered for those interested. The evening is an especially good time for visiting the Center.

Come November, Californians will be treated to a prodigious endeavor which will make the Rose Bowl seem like a game of tiddily-winks. The classic event, which we classify in the athletic category because of the rigorous physical conditions of the combatants and the strenuous verbal evercises prevalent, is on of the oldest games known to man— the game of politics.

The coveted trophy being offered to the victor is the governorship of the great state of California, along with a few other fringe benefits.

The expert prognosticators have gone out on a limb at this early date and predicted that the teams of Nixon and Brown will collide in the finals. Both teams are heavily favorites in their respective divisions to slip by the June semi-finals, better known as the primaries.

Coach Dick, he's the fellow who guides the Nixon team, is in a most precarious position. His team tried for the National Title in 1960 and blew it by a slim margin. Another loss at this juncture in his career would just about send Nixon down to oblivion.

Nixon's key player is a fellow named "National Experience." "Old Nat," as he is known to his intimates, has been around the game for some time and has "ring savvy," so to speak. He was nurtured from 1956 to 1960 in Washington DC and emerged a pretty powerful fellow. He almost carried Nixon's team to the title in 1960, and has impressed a lot of Californians. He is undoubtedly the most valuable player on the Nixon team.

Another player of lesser stature on the Nixon squad is "Personal Appearance," who has been showing up good in practices around the state. His handshaking manner has made him one of the top prospects for fame in the Nixon camp. Local fans have a chance to see him May 24 when he speaks in the South San Francisco high school auditorium. His persuasive ability could carry a lot of weight in the championship clash.

Coach Pat, he commands the Brown team, is the defending champion and is a well known figure in the California political game. His key player is "Local Experience," also known as "Loco" to his opposition. "Local" has been in the limelight for four years and is a powerful factor with California rooters.

The Nixon team has experienced some injury trouble which might hamper it a bit. According to coach Pat's spies, who have been keeping a close watch on the early work-outs, the Nixons are suffering from lack of knowledge of local problems. Also Brown aides contend that if Nixon does win the title, there will be little progress in the next four years.

"He's got a roving eye on that National Title again," replied one of the Brown coaches.

Nixon supporters, on the other hand, are quick to point out that a fellow by the name of "Agriculture" has been sitting on the Brown bench far too long because of poor supervision.

There is also a rumor being circulated that there is dissension among the Brown ranks, causing many of the faithful rooters to desert. Finally, Coach Dick himself has warned the fans to keep an eye out for Brown ringers, which he asserts coach Pat is going to bring in from Washington DC to bolster his popularity.

"If any of the players have the last name of Kennedy, you will know that something is amiss," warned one of the Nixon team aides.

The favorite? That is up to the individual discretion of each fan, with some 9,000,000 of them expected to turn out for the clash.

The weatherman has gazed in his crystal ball and predicted mudslinging weather for the November clash, interspersed with omninous clouds of personal accusations and plenty of heat.

The fans have seven months of barnstorming rallies and vituperative sessions before making their binding decision on which team to root for.

ON THE SIDELINES . . . R. C. Owens, who played out his option with the 49ers, is reported to have asked for twice the amount which linebacker Matt Hazeltine receives.

This statement doesn't mean much numerically, but when you consider Hazeltine is one of the best — if not the best — linebacker in pro football, it takes on added stature.

Howie Goss, former South City star, was in town last week with the Pittsburgh Pirates. After eight years in organized ball, he finally made the Big Leagues.

Goss is the second former Peninsula prep on the Pirate team. Pittsburg's first sacker, Dick Stuart, is a former Sequoia high school star.

RAMS BATTLE TN, JEFF VS CAP

There is a rather serious atmosphere prevailing around the campus at Jefferson high school these days. The blue and gold charges of coach Steve Mezzara instigated the mood last Friday when they downed Aragon, 10-4, at Marchbanks field.

The Indian hardballers gave an indication that they are ready to play all-out, serious ball and that they have a desirous eye cocked at that Peninsula League pennant. The win was the Indians' fourth, against a like amount of losses, and still left them in a position to grab the coveted title.

Over at the hilltop campus of Westmoor, the Ram baseballers are not faring as well. Last Friday afternoon they dropped a close, 3-2, decision to Hillsdale on the Westmoor diamond.

Coach Rod Losberger watched his nine play excellent ball only to lose out. Harry Brown, Westmoor's ace hurler, performed his chore well, but the Ram bats failed to bring across the needed runs.

The green and white prepsters have things a little easier this Friday when they trek over to Linda Mar to meet Terra Nova. Losberger has again designated Brown to handle the pitching duties.

Mezzera's Indians get their chance to prove they are a rejuvenated club when they meet the front-running Capuchino Mustangs on Friday afternoon at Marchbanks Field. Mezzera indicated last week that he believes that the Indians will grow stronger as the season progresses.

The Mustangs will probably throw ace PL hurler Wally Bunker against the Jeffs. Bunker, who has recorded 18 and 12 strikeouts, respectively, in games two weeks ago, is the target of many pro scouts in the area. If the Indians can get to the 6-2 youth, something which no other team has been able to do to date, it will add stature to Jeff's claim of a strong stretch finish.

Mezzera has named senior Bob Miller as the starter in Friday's crucial.

The Indian mentor was very pleased with the performance at the plate against the Aragon Dons.

"Rich Reitz and Mike Morton each collected three hits," Mezzera said. "We got 12 hits during the course of the game, which is a high for us this season," he concluded.

The Indians opened up fast by scoring two runs in the first inning. Morton singled, Reitz doubled, and Mike Rovai smashed a tremendous triple, scoring Morton and Reitz.

Two more tallies came in the fourth inning when Miller gained base on an error, Rovai singled and Bob Easily punched out a two-run single.

The fifth was the big one for the locals as they scored four times. Morton led off with a single, Dave Nathan walked, and Reitz sent them scurrying home with a long double. Miller walked and Darwin Haanen singled, scoring Reitz and Miller.

The final two tallies came in the bottom of the sixth when Carl Carpenter walked, Morton doubled and athan again drove in two runs with a timely single.

Carpenter had a one-hitter going for him up until the sixth inning when the Dons tapped him for four hits and four runs.

Trout Plantings For Coastal Reservoirs

Trout waters throughout the central coastal area this week began receiving their in-season plantings of catchable-size rainbows from California's department of fish and game.

Twenty streams and reservoirs in the area will get booster plants of catchables during this week.

Chorro reservoir on Camp San Luis Opispo will receive its initial 1962 stocking this week. A scheduled pre-season plant in Chorro had to be postponed until public facilities were installed.

Higgins Creek reservoir, east of Half Moon Bay in San Mateo county, has been removed from the department's trout program because of public access problems.

Alameda Creek, in Niles Canyon between Niles and Sunol, was not scheduled for stocking until later in the season but got a hurry-up plant just before opening day when a good flow of water was released into the creek. It will be restocked this week.

Corralitos Creek, north of Watsonville in Santa Cruz county, was also stocked for the opening although it had not been scheduled for stocking until late May. Changing water conditions resulted in the pre-season stocking.

Godkin Homers Sink Misracks In Midget Ball

M & S Builders and Sun Valley Dairy took over top spot in the Tri-City Midget League Sunday with wins over Misracks Sporting Goods of Daly City and the San Bruno Merchants, respectively.

M & S downed Misracks, 10 to 3, when they staged a three-run second inning rally to jump out to a 5-2 lead. Bill Godkin powered out a pair of homers to supply the hitting power for the win.

Sun Valley squeezed home the winning run in the last of the fifth to take a 7-6 win over the Merchants, and knock them from the last of the undefeated.

Marsh Neil slammed out a three-run homer to highlight the Dairymen's hitting attack.

Other action saw the PAL Detectives outlast the Winston Manor Seals, 17-12, and Parkview of San Bruno dumped the PAL Sergeants, 13-2.

The youths of Cub Pack 347, Our Lady of Mercy Church, are anxiously awaiting the annual Scout-O-Rama, to be held at the Cow Palace this weekend, May 11 and 12.

More than 40 boys from the pack will participate in the festivities. The pack has chosen a sports theme project.

Ram Divotmen Win Matches

Rich Perazzo and Jim Fair led Westmoor's golfers to a pair of victories over Terra Nova and Hillsdale last week.

The Rams dropped Terra Nova, April 30, 12½ - 8½ as Dennis Mori and Tony Bento picked up 7½ points in their foursome. Perrazo was the Rams low scorer with a four-over-par 76 over the tough Sharp Park course. Perrazo and Jim Fair combined for 4½ more points and Ron Johnson garnered Westmoor's final half-point.

Hillsdale was the Rams' second victim of the week as they fell 14-7 on May day. Fair and Perazzo were low with 77 and 79, respectively and garnered 6½ points in their foursome. Bento and Mori combined for 4½ points in their foursome while Ron Johnson scored the Rams' final three markers.

NICKEL CAPACITY DOUBLES

Over the past 10 years the free world's capacity for producing nickel has more than doubled.

SERRA WINS RAM INVITATIONAL

Westmoor's fourth annual invitational brought victory to the spikers of Serra on the hilltop oval last Friday. Serra, who emerged victorious out of a field of seven schools, chalked up 56 points with consistent first and second place finishes.

Following Serra were Bellarmine with 33⅓, Riordan with 28, Jeff with 29½, Terra Nova with 21, South City with 18, and Westmoor with 14.

Taking two firsts each for Serra were Bill Harrison and Jim Firenze. Harrison got his in the 120 high hurdles with a time of 15.3 and in the 18 low hurdles with a time of 20.7. Firenze took first in the 100 and 200 yard dashes with times of 10.1 and 22.7 respectively.

Although Westmoor wasn't too much in the running with the loss of ace dash man Roy Pinelli, and Dennis Chase, using a borrowed pole, Jim Lucke and Gary Allard showed for Westmoor. Lucke, a three year vet, took second in the 120 high hurdles and tied for first in the high jump with Jim Stanley of Bellarmine at six-feet. Allard, a senior, put the shot for a second place behind Joe Norman of Riordan who heaved the 12 pound ball 52 feet 6 inches.

Highest finish in the invitational by a North Peninsula League team was Jefferson who placed fourth. Jeff was led by Sam Ennon who compiled eight points and Bob Gomez who tallied four. Ennon took second spot in the 100 and the 180 low hurdles, while Gomez took fourth in the 180 lows and the 120 highs.

Westmoor's "B's" fared better in their classification of competition by taking a fourth place. They were led by Dennis Tracy, Jerry Becker, Greg McCarthy, Mike Morrison, Brandt Larsen, Rich Cortesi, and Bill Augilar.

Tracy and Becker took the only firsts for Westmoor. Tracy's winning the 660 with a time of 128. and Becker taking the broad jump with a leap of 18 feet 3½ inches. Becker also tied for second in two other events.

Terra Nova took the "C" division with 44 5/6 points and was followed by Jeff, Serra, Westmoor, Riordan, Bellarmine, and South City.

South City Dragster Seeks National Rank

Stiff competition for fifth position on the National Eliminator List will make the drag contest at Half Moon Bay this Sunday one of the top challenge races of the year.

Challenger for fifth position honors is the California State Champion, the Champion Speed Shop Special from South San Francisco. The supercharged Chevrolet dragster turns speeds of 185 mph with e.t.'s in the low 8.30 second bracket. Driving is Sammy Hale from South San Francisco.

Defending the national position is the Master & Richters Special from San Leandro. The super-charged Chrysler dragster turns speeds of 189 mph with e.t.'s in the low 8.30 seconds.

Competitive races between the two contenders are set for 1 p.m. Sunday afternoon. If a third race is necessary for two out of three wins, a final run-off is scheduled for 3 p.m. A total of $2000 in awards and prizes will be offered.

In addition to Sunday's featured headliners, all of Northern California's top dragsters will be in attendance to compete for weekly honors in speed and precision driving.

Gates open at 8:30 a.m., with eliminations at 12:30 p.m. at Half Moon Bay Drag Strip, 26 miles south of San Francisco on the Coast Highway.

CAHILLS WIN 8 MATCHES

Cahill's Judo Academy compiled eight wins in a day of spectacular action at the Judo Black Belt Federation Spring Tournament at South San Francisco high school Sunday.

Black Belt action saw San Bruno's Fred Cahill win two matches, one by throw, before losing. Cahill, with two wins, was one of the top contestants of the day.

Willy Cahill, of South San Francisco, also earned a win by throw before being eliminated in his second match. Both Cahills were aiming at second degree Black Belt classifications. A panel of judges studied all 30 belt holders in the match and will decide on awards within a few weeks.

Only other north county judoist to win two matches was Jack Angius of San Bruno. Angius was elevated to Brown Belt class by virtue of wins by a throw and decision before losing.

Brown Belts Joe Souza, Rick Ramirez and Joe Benetti, all of South San Francisco, each won by throws but were eliminated in their second bout. Eddie Rodriquez and Phil Lara, also of South SF, lost in their initial matches.

White Belts Bernie Wyman of San Francisco and Ron Digino of Daly City also lost.

With the bulk of judo season out of the way, the north county team turns to preparing its fund-raising benefit Luau, to be held at San Francisco's Surf Club May 26.

The affair will feature Prince Kawohi, former star of the Harry Owens show, and one of the best-known Hawaiian singers in the nation. A variety of Hawaiian dishes will be served.

Cahills will also put on a judo demonstration at Hillsborough's Concours d'Elegance May 20.

Game Commission Objection Meet

Determinations on the 1962 hunting regulations were announced by the California Fish and Game Commission at its April 30 meeting in Los Angeles.

The commission will hear and consider any objections to these determinations at a meeting scheduled for May 25, also in Los Angeles, and will adopt its regulations to govern the 1962 hunting season at that time.

A $10,000 Deadline

One night in 1955 a young man, not long out of high school, was about his chores in the office of the small Hudson Valley newspaper where he worked when a yellow folder bearing a picture of the late Grantland Rice caught his eye. He reached into the waste basket and retrieved an announcement of the first TRA-Grantland Rice scholarship, sponsored by Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc. Charles "Chuck" Nord sat down at the typewriter and applied for the scholarship. The following May a committee of sports writers, representatives of TRA and of Vanderbilt University met in Nashville and went over the finalists selected by the school's Board of Admissions, and chose Chuck Nord. Since then young men from Kentucky, Texas, Georgia and Michigan have entered Vanderbilt on the TRA's $10,000, all-expense scholarship. The only condition TRA puts on the scholarship is that the applicant meet Vanderbilt's entrance requirements. TRA's idea was to give aspiring young sports writers the same liberal arts education that Grantland Rice had at Vanderbilt, but if they later decide to go into medicine, law or even nuclear physics, the sponsors have no objection.

Deadline for preliminary application, which should be addressed to James L. Buford, Director of Admissions, College of Arts & Science, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, is December 15.

THE MEMORIES SURVIVE

By GARRY NIVER

George "Junior" Dahl loved life. Despite its hardships and turmoils, he loved all it had to offer. The bad came with the good and Junior, full of optimistic enthusiasm, realized this.

He had more than his share of hardships during his 16 years on earth. Just before he was born, his father passed away. As Junior grew older, he learned to accept responsibility faster than did other youths his age. He had to.

He had a mother, four sisters, and a younger stepbrother to look after.

Junior built his life around helping others and sports. At Our Lady of Perpetual Help, where he was graduated in 1960, he was an all around sports star. The trophies on his dresser indicate the type of ability and dedication he had to the sports life.

He was an Explorer Scout with Troop 243, sponsored by Our Lady of Perpetual Help. He also liked to help the younger boys of the community, being a junior scout master for a Daly City Boy Scout troop.

Much of his life centered around Our Lady of Perpetual Help of which he was a member of the teen club, attending the social activities and snow trips when he had time. Every moment of Junior's life was utilized toward worthwhile and enjoyable projects.

Last year he entered Jefferson high school. He went out for the frosh-soph football team and became one of its starters, playing on both offense and defense. Last November, in a football game against Terra Nova, Junior broke his leg. But this didn't seem to deter his enthusiasm towards life.

He mended in time and this spring went out for the track team at Jefferson. He was fast, real fast, and gained a berth on the Jefferson varsity. His dream was to excell in sports and receive an athletic scholarship to college. The coaches saw Junior's determination and were proud to have him on their team. He was the epitomy of the wholesome youth which every community wishes they had, but rarely do. The kind of lad that parents like to see call on their daughter for a Friday night dance or a Saturday night movie.

At the Houk house, 400 Niantic avenue, he was known as the man of the house. His mother, Helen Houk, depended on Junior for the man's chores, and sometimes even advice.

This summer, Junior was going to re-wire the house and fix up the basement. He had just gotten a job at Bodesta Baldocchi Florists in his spare time to aid the family financially. Things were looking real rosy for Junior. Easter Sunday he became the godfather of his sister Delores' new baby girl.

Last Sunday, Junior and about a dozen of his friends decided to take a bike ride out to Golden Gate Park. It was one of those rare times when Junior had some time to enjoy the warm Sunday afternoon.

At 48th avenue and Cabrillo street, Junior's bike slammed into a Muni bus. At 10:30 o'clock Monday morning, George "Junior" Dahl drew his last breath from the world he loved so much. His life, though short, was fuller than the average middle-aged person, and he accomplished a lot more in 16 years than many people do in a lifetime.

A celebrated high Mass was held from Our Lady of Perpetual Help at 9 o'clock this morning. Interment was at Holy Cross cemetery. Dahl is survived by his loving mother, Helen, sisters Mrs. Marlene Salcedo and Mrs. Delores Bonnicksen, Theresa and Patricia Houk, and brother Butch Houk.

He also is survived by the memories of many people in Daly City who will remember Junior Dahl and the achievements he left behind him.

WESTMOOR'S fabulous Dennis Chase, the top prep vaulter in the state, clears the bar at 13-6 to take first place in the pole vault in a sectional meet at Westmoor last Friday.

Physical Fitness Program

"Physical fitness is important to every individual. Westmoor's physical education program is designed to obtain the maximum physical efficiency for all bodily functions," commented Tony Giammona in explaining Westmoor's physical education program.

Although this efficiency has always been the aim of the department, impetus was given to it through President Kennedy's emphasis on a physical fitness program in American schools. Further impetus was given when President Kennedy designated the week of May 16-12 as Physical Fitness Week.

For the boys' program at Westmoor, a definite set of exercises relating to physical fitness is executed by all students the first 15 minutes of class. Tests are given at the beginning of each year to determine each student's level in a particular exercise. Follow-up tests at the end of the year help the students and his instructors learn what progress the student has made.

A new part of this program went into effect last Monday. IBM cards for each boy in the physical education department were made. Norms have been established for 14, 15, 16 and 17 year old students. In each category for each test is given poor, satisfactory, good and excellent norms. Through the data on these cards, the student can compare himself with others, watch his own progress, and develop an interest in physical fitness.

Activities from trampoline to Swedish gymnastics are included in Westmoor's fitness program for girls. Through the varied program, girls may develop body control, muscle tone, and precision as well as a proper use of the body.

"Good physical fitness has an effect on emotional and mental development," reports girls' physical education instructor Miss Barbara Bosio.

A strong adherent to the physical fitness program, Miss Bosio pointed out that the girls' program included two sections. Besides exercises which are largely a part of the beginning instruction of all PE classes, girls are provided instruction in skills in tumbling, trampoline, badminton, basketball, soccer, dance, golf, volleyball, archery and softball.

"We believe our strong physical program helps to develop healthy students who will be able to contribute to society better because they are in good shape," concluded Miss Bosio.

WESTMOOR'S Harry Brown rounds first after collecting a base hit against Hillsdale last Friday. PL umpire Joe Avelar watches the play closely.

Scout-O-Rama Opens Friday

More than ,000 Scouts have been busy this week "pitching camp" in the Cow Palace in preparation for their gigantic two-day Scout-O-Rama that goes on Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12.

The Scouts' annual show has for its theme, Sports America, keyed to President Kennedy's physical fitness for America program. "Scout-O-Rama will be similar to a three-ring circus with something going on every minute," according to show director Ralph Benson.

There will be constant activity in the main arena of the Cow Palace — exhibitions of tennis by nationally ranked players; and demonstrations of wrestling, gymnastics, soccer, fencing, judo and trampoline. Performing in these events will be members of San Franciso's nationally known Olympic Club. The Olympic Club's wrestling team is ranked No. 1 nationally by the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU), and the gymnastic team placed third in most recent AAU competition.

Special Booths

The Big Four of San Francisco's pro teams — the Giants, 49ers, Saints and Seals — will have special booths. The Giants will give away free autographed baseballs every half hour to holders of lucky tickets.

Each Scout-O-Rama show will start with a concert and parade by two drum and bugle corps and a Scout bagpiper band. More than 300 Scout exhibit booths, each manned by a different troop, will demonstrate scouting skills, ranging from techniques on how to survive in the wilderness to the rigging and manning of sailboats.

There will also be demonstrations on mountain climbing, the evolution of fire-making, and Polynesian dancing. Performing the latter will be Scouts who are natives of Samoa.

Show times are from 7 to 10 p. m. Friday and from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 10 p. m. Saturday. Admission is $1 with those under 16 admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

HEAVY CROWDS pressed into the Our Lady of Mercy Hall May 3-7 to see the Space-O-Rama events. Booths were decorated in various space themes.

Frog Jump Entries Are Many, Varied

Entries for the International Frog Jump at Angels Camp on May 17-20 are coming in from many countries — Spain, Sweden, Australia, New Zealand, Saudi Arabia, Canada, France, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Puerto Rico and South Africa.

Two students from the University of San Francisco are hoping to bring in frogs from San Salvador. One of the students, Chris Miloslavich, made a trip last summer to El Salvador to visit his roommate, Rafael Escalon, and noticed how well the frogs jumped. At his suggestion, Rafael tried to bring some back with him after his Christmas vacation, but they were confiscated for lack of papers. The students thought they'd try again and have them flown to San Francisco by jet.

Iberia Air Lines is bringing two from Unia, a small town said to be renowned for its frogs between Madrid and Valencia. The frogs will be flown from New York by United Air Lines.

South Pacific Air Lines was planning to enter a Tahitian frog and dispatched an explorer into the hinterland to find one but after many adventures reported that the only frog they had been able to locate was eaten as an hors d'oeuvre by a native who is now wearing the bones dangling from his earlobes.

Nikita Khrushchev has been sent an invitation to enter a Russian frog, but as San Francisco writer Herb Caen has noted "so far, not a croak out of the Kremlin."

Crafts Exhibit Set At Westlake

The Bay Area Arts and Crafts Guild will hold its second annual arts and crafts exhibit at the Westlake Shopping Center May 15 to May 20. The exhibit will be indoors, during regular store hours.

Judges will be Bob Kavicic, teacher from San Francisco City College, and Graeme Keith, curator from the de Young museum. Dr. Herbert Sanders, professor of ceramics at San Jose State College, an honorary member of the guild, will be a guest exhibitor.

Honest Citizens Help Sports Car Strippers

Many honest citizens have become unwitting accomplices of auto thieves in the illicit business of vehicle stripping, California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said this week. Crittenden said that vehicle stripping, particularly of sports cars, "has been spreading in California."

"Many thieves rent private garages in which to conduct their stripping operation. As far as the garage owner knows, he has rented out space simply for vehicle storage. Unknowingly, however, he has aided the crime through his failure to report the rental as required by law.

"The Vehicle Code provides that anyone other than a garage keeper, who rents private garage space for storage of a vehicle must, within 24 hours, report such fact to the sheriff or local police department.

"This report not only will meet provisions of the law, but will do much to eliminate this method of operation by vehicle strippers," the commissioner said.

WATCH OUT FOR DROWSINESS

Watch out for drowsiness when driving long stretches at night, warns the National Automobile Club. A drowsy driver can fall asleep, and that can mean disaster.

It's SPARE TIME

at Westlake Bowl

By JIM GREALISH

Next Sunday night marks the start of a new weekly feature, the Weekend Windup No-Tap Sweeps, at 9 o'clock. Replacing the Variety Scotch Doubles which came to an end last Sunday, this new feature will be open to men and women, with cash prizes in both divisions. Reservations at $2.50 per bowler may be made by calling Rick or Primo.

"Hail to the Champions" was the word around Westlake last Thursday as the Westlake team won the playoff in the Brunswick Travel League. Members of the winning team are Barbara Hicks, Mary Dowd, Bertha Anderson, Ray Quiros, Roy Bishop, Tony Silva and Dave Hicks. San Francisco Brunswick manager Lloyd Brown was on hand to present trophies to the winners.

Bob Boffy has made a great recovery of bowling form after his foot injury. Last week he had a high series of 608 in the 825 Scratch League on games of 195-220-193 while Bob Cole took high game honors with a 233 effort.

May 10 is the closing date for competition in the Westlake Champion of Champions qualifying round. Teams that are champions of a league may compete to represent Westlake Bowl in the San Francisco finals next Saturady at Park Bowl. The winner will receive trophies at the Bowlers' Dinner Dance on May 19 at the St. Francis Hotel.

Tony Giammona, popular Westmoor basketball coach, again proved that he is an all-around athlete as he led the Daly City Employees League with a 202 game and 542 series while Arlene Keough led the ladies with 161 and 454.

Meetings are now in progress for the many daytime leagues. Rick Dreier announced that meetings are being held this week for the Tuesday morning and afternoon leagues, Thursday morning for the Early Quads and Thursday afternoon for the Westlake Keglerettes and next Monday morning for the "Wake-up and Bowl" handicap league.

Jim Cummings and Wally Scwartz were the second week qualifiers in the current Gold Coast Handicap Classic which runs until June 24. With a 695 total, Jim led the upper division while Wally's 685 handicap series led those with an average of 164 and under.

Qualifiers at the end of the ten week period will compete in the Westlake finals June 30 and July 1.

Bill Jost of the Lake Merced Nursery team led the field Monday evening with a strong 619 series on games of 205-234-186. Bill is a vital cog in his team's efforts to take second place in the 805 Scratch League.

Resident certified instructor Dick Truesdell has set up a program whereby anyone has an opportunity to join the millions of bowlers now participating in America's most popular sport. With Brunswick's highly successful "Learn to Bowl" program, Dick will hold classes twice daily Monday through Friday at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. and at 1 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays. Class reservations may be made by calling Dick at PL 6-5777.

Emily Drago became a repeat winner in the Monday afternoon Powder Puff Swiss Singles as she ran up a total of five points to take the $10 first prize while Bee Durand took second place.

The Monday 805 Scratch League was missing much of its usual spark last week as popular John Viglinezoni of the Barrett Construction team was temporarily confined to Sequoia Hospital. Teammates and opponents alike look forward to seeing John back soon.

George Dieterle continues to show improvement as he led the Ball and Chain Mixed Fives with 210 and 511. Powder Puff champ Jean Lunghi led the ladies for the evening with a 171 game and 504 series.

More than 150 representatives of Bay Area bowling centers were on hand at Westlake last Wednesday for luncheon and the premiere showing of Brunswick's 1962 line of products. Brunswick manager Lloyd Brown conducted a program which revealed some startling changes in ladies' bowling equipment, especially in three types of bowling bags.

Luela Brown and Ora Swanson were only two pins apart in the Ladies' 640 Scratch Fours with 598 and 596, although Luella took high game honors with a strong 235 effort.

Last Saturday night was cause for a dual celebration as Nellie and P. B. Witt celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary and held the banquet for the Twilight Mixed Fives League, of which Nellie is secretary.

Sponsor Dorothy Moyle feted the 75 girls of her A-1 Nursery team to a banquet at the bowl last Thursday and a good time was had by all, especially Dorothy who had a gift for each of the girls.

Scores in the Marche Club League go up and up each week. This time it was Vito Cavallini taking top honors with a 211 game and 568 series.

Joe Crowley again cracked the 200 mark with a 201 game and 552 series to lead the Mayfair Strike League.

The 20 team Telco summer league was off to a rolling start last Thursday as Len Heiser directed traffic.

Dwarf Citrus, Garden Favorite

Whether you eat or merely look at them, the many varieties of dwarf citrus are a joy to have in the garden. The fruit can be decorative as well as delicious, while the trees themselves are both useful and good looking.

You can grow dwarf citrus in tubs for specimen use on patios and decks. You can fill a foundation planting with them or grow them as a dense hedge-screen on a sunny property line. Moreover, these dwarfs can be grown up against a wall to catch heat and ripen the fruit in areas where citrus is normally hard to ripen.

Meyer Lemon was the first popular dwarf citrus offered by members of the California Association of Nurserymen. Today, however, it has been joined by practically every citrus fruit commonly seen and many that are not so commonly seen. CAN nurseries today carry varieties of limes, lemons, oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and kumquats as well as hybrids such as tangelo (a cross between grapefruit and tangerine) and limequat (a cross between Mexican lime and kumquat).

From the decorative standpoint, dwarf citrus stands out because these is more fruit per square foot of foliage than on full size trees. This is due largely to the fact that the fruit is natural size while the tree is not, but it is also due to the dwarf's tendency to bear relatively more abundant crops.

Citrus trees are naturally bushy in character, and unless you prune them up, the branches start at ground level. This quality enhances the looks of dwarf citrus, makes it ideal around foundations and when used as a screen. When grown in tubs, the training is up to you. Prune as you see fit to maintain a pleasing form.

The most important cultural note to remember is that citrus trees need plenty of moisture, yet they resent soggy soil, especially right around the trunk. When watering in a basin, keep the basin out from the trunk to prevent water from coming in direct contact with the tree. Feeding can be rather casual, except where citrus roots have to compete with lawn grasses. In such cases, extra nitrogen will probably be required to keep the lawn from robbing the tree and vice versa.

Six New Westmoor Majorettes Slated

Westmoor High School Majorette Corps will welcome six new members next fall.

After training for two weeks, Westmoorites Janice Allard, Barbar Lina, Clareen La Rocca and Renice Phillips were judged and accepted at tryouts May 1.

Along with four veteran majorettes, and two graduating Benjamin Franklin girls, the corps, which has just become a school club, to meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, will perform at rallies and games next year.

SSF High Debate Team Victorious

Hosting the second annual Law Day debates, sponsored by the Peninsula Speech Association on May 1, was the climax of forensic work this year for South San Francisco High School's public speaking class, according to Lyle K. Crawford, coach of the team. Both of the debate teams entered by the high school emerged victorious over their P.S.A. opposition.

Team A from South San Francisco was composed of John Shaw, Sharon Hoyle and Herschel Brown, defeated a team from Mill High School. The South City team debated the affirmative side of this year's national topic which proposed federal aid to education for the equalization of educational opportunity.

Team B, debating the negative side of the national topic, defeated Capuchino High School. Members of this South San Francisco team were Roger Dong, David Edwards and Michele Markowski.

DIRECT CURRENT — A revolutionary method of transporting large quantities of electric power by direct-current transmission is the basis of the proposed Intertie between the Pacific Northwest and the Pacific Southwest now being urged by government officials. As the above map depicts, the double conductor line operating as a common carrier with service available to both public and private agencies, would connect California steam generation with Northwest hydroelectric generation. Surplus power would be transported in either direction between Grand Coulee Dam in the state of Washington and Los Angeles and intermediate points.

A MOTHER OF 1907 looks out from behind her picture frame with both interest and puzzlement at her well-dressed modern counterpart. She seems to be wondering if dress styles could have changed so much since 1907 — the year authorities say the modern observance of Mother's Day began. More than a mother's dress has changed over the years, according to Don Davis, manager of Penney's in Westlake. Today's mother is much more interested in the world around her than her mother was, he said. In contrast to the mother at the turn of the century who was pretty much a "stay-at-home," today's mother not only raises a family efficiently, but participates in all kinds of activities that were unheard of in 1907. Although mother may have changed since 1907, the deep significance of Mother's Day — which will be observed this year on the traditional second Sunday of May on May 13 — continues today, the Penney manager said.

Fuchsias Need Only Shade And Water

The tender beauty of a fuchsia in bloom completely belies the ease with which we grow them in California. Given enough shade and water — the two main requirements in our summer-dry state — these rampant shrubs will produce mass after mass of their pendulous blooms through summer and well into fall. And if they are at their best in coastal gardens, it does not men they won't flourish elsewhere.

Growing fuchias outside the coastal fog belt is largely a matter of giving them a little extra attention — more shade, more moisture on their leaves and an extra heavy mulch. Wherever you live, it's advisable to check with a local member of the California Association of Nurserymen to see what cultural tricks he uses to get the most from his fuchias.

One of the most delightful things about fuchias is their willingness to produce new faces with each new year. Like roses, they seem to have an infinite capacity for change and that change seems always for the better. The following are only a few of the new fuchias which C.A.N. nurserymen will offer this year.

The variety Uncle Jeff is one you'll like. It's a large red and purple fuchsia that will scramble all over a wall or trellis. And another sturdy new one that will catch your eye is the white and pink Chantilly. Then come Vanity Fair, a lovely pink, Flirtation Waltz, a double pink and white, and Not So Big, a dainty little newcomer with blue and pink coloring. These are all upright shrubs.

Upright or slightly trailing in habit are Fan Dancer, a mixture of blue, pink and red, Blush O Dawn, a blue and white beauty, May Queen, a combination of pink and blue, and Royal Velvet, a striking combination of deep purple and crimson.

Trailing varieties for pot and container culture include Satan's Folly, a single fuchsia with long blooms of purple and maroon, Squarehead, a miniature single with delicate pink shadings, and Pink Foremost, a large-flowered beauty with varied shades of pink to identify it.

As we say, however, these are but a few of the 1962 Fuchsia introductions. Your local C.A.N. member will have several others — all of them worth a place in your garden.

Growing plants in containers is one way to get the maximum enjoyment from them. Such practice permits you to move the garden right up onto a patio. It enables you to have a garden on a rooftop or on an apartment sun deck or wherever you will within reason.

Technically, there is practically no limit to what can be grown in containers, as you can readily see when you visit a California Association of Nurserymen show yard. But there is a practical limitation, namely that some plants will do well for a long time in a minimum root space, while others need moving to larger containers quite often.

By carefully selecting shrubs that don't mind cramped roots, the gardener can have a container garden with a minimum amount of effort. To these he can add tubs full of annuals and even a large container or two with medium sized trees planted in them.

Year in and year out, the one plant family that earns its keep for its fine performance in containers is the Pelargonium family — both the common zonal Geraniums, the more delicate Martha Washington Geraniums and the trailing Ivy Geraniums. No better choices could be made by the gardener who plants his first container garden.

The Geraniums are all easily grown and tougher than most shrubs in your garden. Their reputation for drought resistance, however, is something of a myth since all of them do better with plenty of water than without. Grown in containers, especially, they should have ample moisture at their roots at all times. Feed them, too, with a balanced fertilizer about once every month or six weeks during growth and bloom in tubs.

It's fun for the gardener to shop for Geraniums and Pelargoniums as they come into bloom, and at the same time, you can shop for a container to grow them in.

You could make a whole garden of Geraniums, but you need not. Some other shrubs to consider for containers are: For bloom — Camellias, Azaleas, Marguerites, Cushion Chrysanthemums, Hibiscus, Felicia, Bird of Paradise, Fuchsias. For foliage only — Bamboo, New Zealand Flax, Boxwood, Privet, Juniper, Japanese Black Pine. For ornament—Dwarf Citrus.

In addition, the wise gardener will have annuals available at all times and ready to move in for spot color as they come into bloom.

Botanical note: The Geraniums are all Pelargoniums and classed as follows: Zonal Geraniums (Pelargonium hortorum); Martha Washington Geraniums (Pelagornium domesticum) Ivy Geranium (Pelargonium peltatum).

Auto Shop Students View Assembly Line

Auto Shop students from Westmoor High School traveled to the Ford Motor Company in Milpitas on May 3 for a day of assembly line observing.

Accompanied by George Chrestionson and Charles Langendorf, the student mechanics viewed the progress of an automobile from its starting point to the finished product. When an order is placed for a new car it goes by IBM from the plant to the Detroit center which, in turn, sends the needed materials directly to the outlying plant.

Milpitas plant, which specializes in Falcon, Comets, and Ford Fairlanes, turns out new cars at the rate of 56 brand new cars an hour. This is possible because each man has an assembly line job for which he is highly trained. In addition, the plant is run on a rigid schedule that allows for no time loss. Interchangeable parts are used on most Ford cars which speeds up production.

When the car-to-be reaches the welding stage it leaves the hands of the assembly linemen and automation takes over. In a special resistance welding machine different portions of the frame are fused together and again placed on the assembly line to meet the next phase of construction.

With the clock work precision of the plant's specialized workers and the aid of automation, one car takes only 11 hours from order to finished product.
